

Message from the Premier

Premier of NSW

Today I am launching the NSW State Plan.

The NSW public sector has a profound impact on the lives of the nearly seven million people of NSW. Providing the full range of Government services is a large and complex job which requires us to manage competing demands in an environment of constant change.

The State Plan: A New Direction for NSW provides the foundation for responding to this challenge. It reflects the hopes and goals of more than 4000 groups and individuals who shared their views as part of the draft State Plan consultation process.

The purpose of the Plan is to deliver better results for the NSW community from Government services.

The State Plan is about Government, on behalf of the community, providing clear direction to the public service. To this end, the Plan contains 14 long term social, economic and environmental goals, 34 specific priorities for action and 60 measurable targets.

The State Plan also introduces a new delivery framework to strengthen Government and agency accountability to the public.

I encourage you to read the State Plan in full and look forward to working with you as we embark on the task of making it happen.

Morris Iemma
Premier
